

Seth Carlock
scarlock@huskers.unl.edu
402-209-1546

Acetoned Display Board

Hunting & Gathering St. Edward

While visiting St. Edward, the site selection process took place passing through and on the way out of town as the area just west of the town came to interest of a great hunting area. Hunting being a major hobby of mine, the site was chosen. After further site investigation the idea to reuse the existing farm structures was implemented. Coming from a small town, using gathering spaces from my home town was always at thought. With revenue also constantly being on my mind, the main structure consists of a dining area and bar on the 1st floor, large multi-use gathering space on the 2nd floor and 4 small hotel type rooms on the 3rd floor for hunters to stay in. Other structures consist of one being a space for raising birds to be turned loose for hunting purposes and the other being a personal locker for hunters to leave hunting equipment as well as kennel areas for their dogs which can be locked and secured. Keeping to the local rural farming vernacular as well as developing or modernizing existing buildings was the main driving ideas.

Section Model

Physical Model

Renderings

Photo Montage